

A Great Site to Teach Kids About Safety!

Being in the business of family safety, I am always on the lookout for fun ways to teach my own kids about safety. When I came upon this site, it was clear that I had to share it with you!

Danger Rangers is fun for kids while teaching them really important information about safety. There are fabulous characters, games, downloadables, ecards and more, all relating to different safety topics. It is not only a website, but also a television show! So check your local listings to see if the program is available in your area. Bookmark the site now and show it to your little ones (if you can tear them away from Webkinz World!)
