

A Great Product In Case Your Child Gets Lost

Have you ever lost your child, even for a moment and instantly wanted to scream and cry like a baby, but had to hold it together so you wouldn't scare the other children around you? More often than not, your child shows up just around the corner within the next few moments, but it still scares the living daylights out of you. The fact remains that children do go missing, so being prepared for this beforehand is critical.

These days, I am into sharing great finds with you guys that will help keep your kids safe and your mind at ease. Products like these inspire me want to come out with a Responsible Family Award! Check this out...

Yes, Safety Tat is an identifying tattoo for your kids! These ingenious little temporary tatoos are just what any parent (or nanny) going to Disneyland, the neighborhood park or even the mall need for their kids. Most kids absolutely love the idea of a tattoo and the beauty of these is that they don't peel off like a sticker would, but they wash off at the end of the day!

Each tattoo is personalized with "If Lost please contact... (insert your mobile phone number)", so if your child becomes separated from you or from another caregiver, you can be reached immediately!

What's not to love about this product!? I give it the first Responsible Family endorsement ever! Now, get busy and go order yours!
